Proceedings at Louisville

L[OUISVILLE], Sept [illegible].—After the reading of [illegible] Committee on [illegible] interrupted by applause, a motion was made and adopted to appoint a committee of one from each State on credentials. During the call of States [illegible] presented a letter from [illegible] held in San Francisco, appointing [illegible] to this Convention, which was read as follows: [illegible] Francisco, August ?—Senator Bayard, Delegate: At a Convention of Democrats of California held this day you were unanimously selected to cast the vote of California at the National Convention to be held in Louisville on the 3d of September. They express their preference for the nomination of Charles O'Conor for President.

On motion Bayard was empowered to represent California in the Convention.

Chauncey C. Burr proposed a meeting to consult with O'Conor. He said the distinguished man refused the nomination of this Convention. He gives among reasons for that refusal that he is disinclined to be bought by resolutions of a convention, and no wonder that he does not lose respect for resolutions of a[illegible] convention, but I feel in my heart that the system which is in his heart will not allow him to decline the nomination.

Great applause. I believe his heart is so full of real truth and love of country that he cannot refuse.

On motion of a delegate Colonel Blanton Duncan was made a member of the Convention and elected First Vice President.

O'Conor's letter greatly strengthened him with the delegates, who regard him with such respect as to induce them to tender him the nomination in spite of his declination. They feel that with his letter as a platform and himself as a candidate for President and John Quincy Adams for Vice President they can make such an appeal to the Democracy of the country as will turn the masses from the Liberal candidates. Hence the ticket is likely to have the names of these two distinguished men upon it.

The Syracuse Convention.

SYRACUSE, Sept [illegible].—The largest crowd that has ever been here are here to-night. The hotels are crowded to overflowing. The State Convention canvassing has been going on all day and is very active this evening. A large majority of delegates here, especially Democrats, desire the nomination of Judge Church for Governor. Ex-Senator Lord says his declination is positive. Next to him Kernan is the man who has stood the strongest all day, but this evening August Schell has been gaining in strength among the Democrats.

Fruit Drying

In an article published a few days ago we gave some statements about fruit drying by a new process. Of the Alden process then mentioned we have this further information from a California exchange:

A fruit drying furnace lately invented by a Mr. Alden received much praise in a late agricultural convention at Savannah, Ga. This furnace was thirty feet high and five feet square inside, and had an endless vertical chain running down in each corner. On these chains at intervals of [illegible] inches were placed sieves or frames, each holding half a bushel of fruit to be dried. The chains descend nearly [illegible] in [illegible] minutes, so that each frame would pass from the top to the bottom in three hours, and in that [illegible] the fruit is dried. A blast of air heated to 115 degrees Fahrenheit is blown by steam into the bottom of the furnace, and as it passes upward it becomes saturated with moisture and grows cooler. The fruit prepared in this manner is represented to be much superior in flavor to the common article. The current of air and the heat are no doubt very beneficial, but the steam engine put the device beyond the reach of the ordinary farmer, and perhaps he could attain the same object by building a furnace or chimney of glass against the sunny side of his house painted white. Such a chimney, open above and below, on hot summer days would carry a strong draught and would probably dry fruit much more rapidly than roofs or light boards or platforms where the air currents have little chance to pass. If the current of air is not strong enough a stove with a pipe running to the top of the furnace will furnish draft as well as heat.

EASTERN STATES

Carry the News to Horace

[illegible] The World's special [illegible] nate the [illegible] Vermont [illegible] The Herald's latest dispatch gives [illegible] and the Tribune's special places the majority at about [illegible] on a rather full vote. The [illegible] puts it [illegible] at [illegible].

Further from Louisville

L[OUISVILLE], Sept [illegible].—The Convention reassembled at 10 o'clock this morning. Lyons offered the following:

Resolved, That we endorse [illegible] O'Conor in the great principle announced in his letter to the Convention, and admire the delicacy which prompted [illegible] request [illegible] to be nominated, but devoted like ourselves as he is to the ancient principles of the Democratic party, united with us in the effort to restore them, we hold him bound to put himself in the contest which we are about to wage, and confident that his patriotism would not permit him to refuse, [illegible] we nominate him as the candidate of the unpurchased Democratic party of the Union, which we now represent.

This resolution received tremendous enthusiasm, and on motion was carried by acclamation, followed by three cheers for O'Conor, twice repeated.

Duncan appealed to the Convention to take the motion by States. Some outsiders who voted on by States would show the entire unanimity.

The motion to reconsider the vote by acclamation and take the vote by States was agreed to.

During roll call George Francis Train rose to make an objection, but had hardly opened his mouth when loud cries were heard of "Put him out," and he was immediately hustled out of doors amid great excitement and loud demonstrations of approval. It was stated last night that Train intended to become an instrument to break up the Convention, hence his prompt expulsion.

The action of the Board of Regents in the presentation of $1,000 to Prof. Gilman to pay for bringing his family to this State from the East is severely commented on by many persons here, as [a] liberal salary commenced from the date of his election, and there is said to be no warrant for such a donation, and the University funds are not abundant at best.

The Call pressmen have struck for an advance in wages, and the proprietors are looking for others to fill their places.

It is stated in San Francisco that the last interest coupons on the Oregon and California railroad bonds have been protested in New York for non payment, the three months allowed by the law after maturity having expired. A letter from Honolulu to San Francisco, dated August 7th, contains the following: The German ship Georges, Capt. Behrens, bound to China with a cargo of spars from Puget Sound, which arrived here June 8th leaking, has nearly completed repairs. On removing the copper to recaulk her bottom it was found the seams underneath were without the first particle of oakum, the ship carpenters who had last caulked her having evidently been unusually saving of that material, trusting to the covering of copper to make up the deficiency. The manner in which the contract for her repairs was made will prevent a similar repetition on the part of Honolulu ship carpenters.

Judge and Jury Trials

[From the Louisville Courier Journal.]

Law is the most conservative of the sciences. Changes come in the course of its history with greater tardiness and are submitted to with greater reluctance than in any other department of human knowledge. The physical scientists would laugh at the positions held by their predecessors of a hundred years ago, but the law is essentially the same. Even religious creeds change with more facility, although the faithful in each age and in each persuasion are ready to swear by the eternal certainty of their faith. But even the law must change. This is shown by the final blending of many rules of common law and by the blending with it some of the milder and more equitable principles from the jurisprudence of Southern Europe. And it now comes to pass that even that much boasted bulwark of English liberty, the trial by jury, has begun to be questioned.

The last Westminster Review contains quite an able and thoughtful article entitled "Trial by Judge, and Trial by Jury," which goes very far toward showing that trial by jury is no longer, if it ever was, an adequate mode of determining legal actions. The writer begins fundamentally by attacking the famous clause in the Magna Charta, providing for the trial of every Englishman by his peers, and asserts that if the sole object of justice was to secure the release of the prisoner, no better means could be secured than by trying him before a class most likely to be in sympathy with him.

Leaving this, the article discusses the comparative merits of trial by judge and the trial by jury. One of the chief advantages claimed for trial by jury is the training the intellect of the people and eliciting their public spirit, the involving public co-operation for public purposes. Without doubting the desirability of such a result, it may be doubted if the benefit is considerable, when it is considered how very few of the whole population are called to serve upon juries; and, granting the benefits to be greater than they are, are we justified in imposing for the general good upon the individual citizen so heavy a burden?

It is also contended by the advocates of juries that the decision of a judge cannot command public confidence so completely as that of ordinary citizens, but an answer to this is that one of the best recognized grounds of equity jurisdiction, that is of referring a case to be decided by a judge and commissioner, is an inherent difficulty and complexity.

The probability of bribery is fully discussed, and it is argued that a judge who is a man necessarily learned and cultivated, who has a judicial reputation to sustain, and a professional esprits de corps, is much less apt to be corrupt than twelve men chosen by haphazard from the community. To show that the trial by jury is no guarantee against bribery, abundant historical reference is given illustrating the great corruption of juries in England as late as the reign of Elizabeth.

The writer contends that the judge is necessarily, from his training and education, better qualified to understand the credibility of witnesses. The expression of countenance, the tone of voice, the manner of testifying, and the motives for falsehood in a witness can never be so fully appreciated by a jury as by an experienced lawyer. The effect, too, of unfair persuasive eloquence of counsel must be much less to be feared when directed to a judge who knows how it is himself, than to an inexperienced layman. The judge has also much more inducements to arrive at a careful and just decision than a man torn away from his business, for while one feels that his efforts, well directed, will lead him to fame and reward, the other must be conscious that he has nothing to gain and perhaps much to lose by his unwilling detention in the court room.

It is likely the article in question admits, that in trials where the State complains of a prisoner—criminal trials—the objections to juries are of much less force. In such trials public opinion ought to have some weight, for at last public opinion is the safeguard of public morals. Then the awful responsibility of taking the life of a human being, even if it be under the sanction of law, is better to be divided among 12 men than to be shouldered upon one. Still the same advantages, in this class of trials as in others, of superior skill, knowledge and power of thought must be admitted to the judge.

Gen. Comly, of the Ohio State Journal, thus paraphrases a scriptural injunction to adopt it to Gratz Brown's crunk in Connecticut: Look not upon the watermelon when it is red, nor upon the stewed cherry when it giveth its color in the cup; at the last it biteth like a soft shell crab and stingeth like the cholera morbus.

Vermont Responds

Vermont has reported [illegible] She spe[illegible] her tongue were in the [illegible] mouth [illegible] the reverberation [illegible] all the [illegible] awake [illegible] There is a [illegible] twenty seven thousand [illegible] before the [illegible] the Liberals [illegible] mont [illegible] reaction [illegible] the [illegible] thousand [illegible] that Vermont would [illegible] but it was claimed that the [illegible] would be much reduced The highest [illegible] obtained in Vermont in a State election was in 1868 when it ran up to [illegible] On this occasion it nearly or quite reaches that high figure The sham reformers claimed that they would be able to take from five to ten thousand votes from the Republicans in this election and that they would certainly reduce the Republican majority to twelve or fifteen thousand

The result of this election is a further striking proof of the weakness of the Greeley movement All the elections of the year with Oregon and North Carolina taken from Democracy New Hampshire and Connecticut responding as of yore and now Vermont increasing her Republican majority are results that contain a meaning which cannot be misinterpreted Grant and Wilson will sweep the field This is no longer a prophecy It is fast developing into a demonstrated fact

The Party Caucus

Some of the organs of the opposition "Liberal Republican" and Democratic have dropped expressions of censure against the OREGONIAN because it spoke recently in favor of a Republican caucus as a means of testing according to party usage the preferences of the Republican members of the Legislature as to United States Senator and of deciding the issue between candidates These critics profess to disapprove the caucus system They deem it an instrument of party tyranny and corruption But their own party invariably uses it and deems the custom good Senator Kelly owes his elevation to it Two years ago the Democracy held that the caucus was the only method whereby the just expectations of the people in regard to a Senator could be fulfilled The argument was that ours is a government of majorities and that in so high a matter as this it was only right that the majority of a victorious party should not be defrauded of its wishes To what is the change of tone and views now due? Is it not due to a desire to defeat the expectations of a majority of the Republican party to produce disorganization in its ranks and to injure its prospects in the future? We may be sure that the purpose is not a disinterested one Greeks who bear gifts mean no good by them

But let us look a little at the caucus system. There is now scarcely a Senator of either party in Congress who does not owe his election to this piece of party machinery It is a universally recognized party method It has been said that no Senator was ever elected in Oregon by it But this is a mistake It was brought into use in the election of Senator Corbett six years ago On the evening preceding his election there was a full caucus of the Republican members of both Houses He was then and there nominated and all the Republican members pledged themselves to vote for him next day in joint session, which they did In 1862 and again in 1864, when Harding and Williams were respectively elected, there was no caucus, because the Legislature on both occasions was almost unanimously Union or Republican and the session itself as to the election of a Senator was virtually a party caucus In California a few months ago a Republican caucus chose Sargent, in Ohio a Republican caucus has just chosen Sherman In short the caucus is as much a recognized piece of party machinery, to be used on all ordinary occasions as a convention to nominate a candidate for Congress or a President of the United States

In one instance, indeed, of recent occurrence, the caucus was set at naught This was in Connecticut. Senator Ferry, who was elected six years ago by the agency of a caucus was not a favorite with his party for re election, A great majority of Republicans of the State supported General Hawley for the position, and a caucus was called in which he received three fourths of the Republican votes But Senator Ferry had obtained personal control of a few members elected as Republicans and they were induced to form a combination with the Democrats whereby Ferry was re elected It was an outrage on the Republican party of the State, and received the condemnation of Republicans everywhere It has imperiled Republican ascendency in Connecticut and since that election the Democrats confidently claim the State It seems to be hardly the thing for a man who believes in the caucus as long as he can use it, to declare against it as an instrument of party tyranny when it is no longer in his interest or under his control In such a course there is a plentiful lack of ingenuousness and candor It is not probable that the Republicans of Oregon would desire a combination with Democrats on any terms or for any purpose The present time is a crisis in national politics The candidacy of Greeley rests on a coalition with Democrats The whole theory of his candidacy is that the time is ripe for a complete disruption of old parties and especially for a dissolution of the Republican organization Combinations for this purpose are the order of the time Of course every true Republican perceives that every such combination is a menace to the integrity of the Republican party It looks toward Greeley it accords with the Greeley-Democratic political idea Republicans of Oregon who have won their State after a desperate battle and against great odds, and who want to hold it for Grant and Wilson in November and for future triumphs certainly do not desire any combination with Democrats in pursuance of the Greeley idea Such a consummation could only weaken the Republican party and exalt the Greeley Democracy A Senator so elected would at the outset be half a Democrat and in case of Greeley's success would soon be a full fledged one Few men can forget their obligations to the power to which they owe their elevation

Some persons, indeed protest against sacrificing private judgment to the decision of a caucus and declaim against the caucus as a means of suppressing liberty of individual action This is simply a protest against all party organization For individual judgment must continually be submitted to party modes else there can be no such thing as party If men will not yield to the general sentiment of the party with which they associate then the membership of parties must break up [illegible] the general principle that the [illegible] shall be entitled to shape their [illegible] and that the minority being treated with deference and respect shall acquiesce Of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] difference of opinion a [illegible] This is the true scope of the party [illegible] The principle on which it operates [illegible] every [illegible] party [illegible] ent It is indeed the vital principle of party coherence and usefulness for without it no party could exist Unless that [illegible] inhabitants of Utopia where political parties are neither necessary nor desirable we must adhere to party modes and accept the caucus as part of the machinery by which parties are conducted

An Error Corrected

The following comes in the press dispatches from San Francisco

It is stated that the last interest coupons on the Oregon and California Railroad have been protested in New York for non payment the three months allowed by law after maturity having expired There are between ten and eleven millions of the bonds out

The bonds of the Chattanooga Railroad Tennessee and one of the Western Virginia Railroads have also gone to protest The information comes through members of the Scott and Texas Pacific party

This statement in so far as it relates to the Oregon and California Railroad is totally without foundation Inquiry here elicits the information that the interest on these bonds was fully paid in April last up to the month of October and the next half yearly interest will be paid in October and promptly thereafter How this statement obtained currency is a mystery at the office here since there never was the slightest ground to found it on

The London Spectator is concerning itself about a rumor that if Greeley should be elected President of the United States Charles Sumner will be appointed Secretary of State The Spectator thinks that such an appointment would make it difficult for foreign Powers and especially Great Britain to maintain cordial relations with this country Sumner it says with all his eloquence and honesty is one of those men who are unable to believe that any idea which he rejects can be honestly entertained by anybody else The Sacramento Union believes that the Spectator troubles itself unnecessarily There are two insurmountable obstacles in the way of Sumner to the Secretaryship First Greeley will never have the chance of nominating him to the Senate and second the Senate which found him an impracticable at the head of the Committee on Foreign Relations, would never confirm his nomination as Secretary of State

The debt of Canada in twenty years from 1852 to 1872 has increased from $20 481 472 to $126 832 088 In 1867 the Dominion started, since when the debt has grown faster than ever before The Dominion however, has a good deal to show for her debt and especially in the way of internal improvements

The reduction of the debt during the month of August was $10,736 636 Total reduction since Grant became President, $348 141 239 The decrease of annual interest on this sum is $23 191,365 What better reason for Republican ascendency could be wanted

The Wreck of the Metis

ADDITIONAL DETAILS OF THE DISASTER—STORY OF SURVIVORS—A COWARDLY [illegible]

News of the wreck of the above named steamer off the Connecticut shore, six miles from Stonington came by telegraph a few days ago The following are additional details of the disaster which reach us by mail

STATEMENT OF W [illegible] SHERIDAN OF THE [illegible] THEATER BOSTON

I knew nothing of the disaster until I heard a great rumpus outside of my state room when I rushed out and learned that the steamer was sinking I then hurried my wife into the life boat There were too many of us in the boat We had proceeded nearly to the land when a rough sea caused the boat to tip over and all of us were thrown into the water It was a terrible moment There were a few of us who could swim Only eight or ten succeeded in laying hold of the boat my poor wife was not among them Sheridan at this point in his narrative became much affected and covered his face with his hands In a moment he resumed with broken voice I have no physical trouble My grief is elsewhere I have telegraphed to Providence to learn if my poor girl was among those taken there by the cutter Among the pathetic incidents of this disaster I remember the death of two children All the evening they had played about the saloon prattling gaily with the passengers and seemingly wrapt up in each other When bed time came one of them said Kiss me mamma, kiss me for I am going to sleep and I saw them no more alive This morning their bodies were washed ashore on the beach clasped in each others arms They appeared as beautiful as they did in life their countenances bore a placid smile as if death had been painless Our boat capsized close to the shore and it was a sad sight to us when we had saved our lives to witness the struggles of those who were unable to withstand the terrible undertow and were drowned in our sight Their upturned faces and despairing looks will haunt me to my dying day that he asked the Purser if any damage had been done by the collision to which the reply was Course not no use for these small craft to run into us they can't hurt us I then went back to my stateroom and laid down I had scarcely closed my eyes when I felt the ship settling under me I aroused my wife at once This was about twenty five minutes after I first heard the crash I opened my stateroom door and found the saloon full of people many of them not dressed and all in a state of feverish anxiety breaking up furniture and trying in a wild way to keep their wits about them They afterward launched loaded lifeboats and threw over bales of cotton to which they had lashed women and children We tried to build rafts Our time was limited however as we felt the boat sinking, and all hands made a rush for the hurricane deck The boat seemed to sink beneath this deck for when it had reached the level of the water it floated away forming a raft of itself We then drifted toward the land The water seemed full of human bodies they drifted about most of them going toward the land Our raft proceeded steadily until it got close to the shore when a big breaker threw us all into the water I was one of the few who were saved

TERRIBLE SCENES

Captain Ritchie of the United States revenue cutter Moccasin saved forty one and took them with seventeen dead bodies picked up near the wreck to Stonington late last night The scene was awful and heartrending to those engaged in saving the perishing and can only be realized by experience Mothers were looking for their children [illegible] husbands for their wives [illegible] and sisters for their brothers

A [illegible] [illegible]

was that of a young [illegible] who with [illegible] children one a boy of three years [illegible] their child six weeks [illegible] were aroused [illegible] the [illegible] They [illegible] on life preservers and the husband taking the eldest child [illegible] other clasped the babe and both plunged into the sea The waves ran high and soon the husband and wife were swept apart The former lost his strength [illegible] hold of the child and both were drowned The mother held the babe above the hungry waters until exhausted and then a wave larger than the rest dashed it from her arms and she saw it sink slowly to the depths below Just as she was exhausted and after her life preserver had slipped from her arms the [illegible] [illegible] ned her and she was brought to life which for the present at least is bitter indeed I have my husband here [illegible] by his dead body in the Narragansett [illegible] but never can I find my babes [illegible]

[illegible]

The Captain and officer [illegible] with one [illegible] appears fastened himself to a [illegible] and deserted the ship the moment he found it was in danger

[illegible]

It will be some days perhaps [illegible] full correct list of the [illegible] but the ship's paper having been [illegible] The following statement has been made by the officials of the Steamship Company

A full list of the passengers officers and crew of the steamer shows that there were [illegible] persons on board 141 of whom are alive The bodies of the other 22 have been found Many have reported themselves to day who were thought to be lost

Judge Barnard

Our readers will remember that Judge Barnard of New York, one of Tammany's [illegible] has been impeached and removed from [illegible] and disfranchised [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to Hawaii [illegible]

[illegible]

At this point [illegible] [illegible] Judge Barnard turn [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] shake hands

The Judge looked straight in [illegible] face and said Senator [illegible] consumption [illegible] from my children's mouth [illegible] would shake hands with me [illegible] got but a few months to live [illegible] without taking place with me

Judge Grover came up [illegible] shot His friends think the Judge made a mistake in being so severe as they are of opinion that the Assembly have the power yet to undo what they have done But Judge Barnard says [illegible] they can't undo it as I read the statute

THE [illegible] FUTURE [illegible] The falls and river of Niagara form one of the most interesting of geological problems The current number of the [illegible] presents the question in a form which is readily understood There is no doubt that the falls are slowly receding and men of science tell us that within [illegible] years they have [illegible] from [illegible] to their present position They recede about six inches every year although old citizens think it is as much as a yard annually The rate has undoubtedly varied with the hardness of the rock The great lakes which have their outlet by Niagara river contain 1,500 cubic miles of water or about half of the fresh water on the globe Eighteen million cubic feet of water go over the falls every minute of time so that it is estimated that all the water of the lakes makes a circuit of Niagara the St Lawrence and the ocean once in [illegible] years Man has robbed Niagara of 52,000 cubic feet of water per minute belonging to it of old by means of the Erie Welland and Illinois river canal By means of terraces [illegible] of rocks traces of glaciers &c the age of the river is traced, and thought to be [illegible] 000 years a period in the calculations of geologists but short They were puzzled to account for the fact that through this comparatively new geological area the outlet for one of the oldest areas should be found But this problem is rapidly being solved by fresh discoveries of the ancient life of the seas in the limestones through which Niagara is now wearing its way The conclusion to which scientific men are led in reference to the future is that Niagara will eventually dwindle away into a succession of rapids and cascades But for the sake of those unfortunates who have not visited Niagara the geologists are pleased to say that many thousands of years must elapse before the end is reached

HINTS ON [illegible]—The more distant your friends are the more you should call—if you want to make yourself beloved

When you take a friend home to dine with you for the first time count the plate before you let him go home It saves subsequent awkwardness

If a friend wants to borrow an umbrella send for a policeman at once and give him in charge It will guard against repetition of the error

Should you happen in a discussion to find that you and your opponent are likely to take opposite views knock him down at once for fear you should be led into a quarrel

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. ... 1872.

CITY.

CAUTIONS.—Teamsters who have skittish horses, should be very cautious about driving down into the water, especially at the foot of Stark street. Yesterday an express driver backed down into the water, and when the equine was desired to draw the vehicle out, it most positively declined. Whipping or kind words were alike useless. When the ferryboat came up, but was unable to effect the usual landing. The horse seemed willing enough to back down, but to move forward, it "couldn't see it." A large crowd collected on the street and sidewalks to witness, of course, the "fun." The ferry was detained some time, and the animal would probably be standing there yet if a rope of cable-like proportions had not been tied to the animal's neck and all hauled, by main strength, to the land. If the practice is continued, we shall give our readers some morning the benefit of a paragraph with a side head of "Boy Drowned."

SHOT AT.—The following particulars concerning an attempt to commit homicide near Oregon City, last Friday, has reached us: A young man named Holmes was met on the road on the bluff by a strange man, a short distance beyond Oregon City, Friday afternoon. The stranger approached near, halted in front of Holmes and desired to know if the road along which he was traveling led to town. Holmes replied affirmatively to the question, and was in the act of resuming travel, when the stranger drew a pistol and discharged the load at him. The ball grazed his shoulder heavily, but fortunately did no serious injury. Before Holmes could recover himself from the surprise and shock, the fellow fled into the woods hard by, and was seen no more. The whole affair is involved in a mystery as yet unsatisfactorily solved.

SAILING RACE.—The schooners Milo Bond and Katie Heron both left this port yesterday with cargoes for Tillamook. We learn that a wager of $100 has been made between the respective Captains as to the best time between the vessels from the mouth of the Wallamet to the Bay. The Milo Bond sailed down the river to the mouth on Monday, and the Katie Heron was towed down to that point yesterday afternoon. The two crafts then squared before the breeze and the test of speed commenced. It is difficult to determine which will be the victor, for both are in fine sailing trim, and bear the reputation of being fast sailing vessels.

WIDENING THE CUT.—The work of widening the grade on the West-side Railroad was commenced at the summit on Tuesday, with the steam shovel and a large number of workmen. The work of widening the cuts will be extended from the summit out as far as practicable. It is well known what trouble was caused during the last winter by the falling of slides upon the road, and thereby delaying the trains beyond the proper time.

REV. DR. LINDSLEY.—The Olympia Courier, in speaking of this gentleman, says: "Dr. Lindsley preached his concluding sermon last night to a good house, and sustained his reputation as an eloquent and learned divine. His descriptions are artistic and his representations of the dead past vivid and lifelike. He talks in a pure conversational style. The Doctor and his family return to Portland to-morrow."

AT SUPREME COURT.—Among the attorneys in attendance on the Supreme Court are B. F. Dowell, P. L. Willis, J. R. Willis, R. P. Boise, R. H. Straban, W. W. Thayer, R. Williams, E. F. Watson, J. H. Stinson, J. R. Neil, J. G. Chapman, P. M. Denny, F. A. Chenoweth, J. Kelsey, R. Mallory, N. B. Knight, T. H. B. Odeneal, M. F. Mulkey, B. F. Dorris, S. Ellsworth, J. D. Fay, J. N. Dolph, J. F. Caples.

DECIDED.—J. Preston was charged before Justice Ryan Tuesday afternoon of having torn down a fence and obstructed the public highway on the old Potter claim, about three miles outside the city limits, on the river road. The case was heard and argued. A decision was rendered yesterday by Justice Ryan, fining the defendant the sum of $29 and costs. We learn that an appeal will be taken in the case.

THEATRICAL TALENT.—By the steamer which arrived here last evening, there came a number of actors and actresses, who are under engagement to manager Waldron, and will appear at Oro Fino Theater Saturday evening, on the re-opening of the theater. With the addition of these talented members, Mr. Waldron will have one of the strongest and best companies on the coast.

ERRATA.—We make the following corrections and additions to the report of the Annual M. E. Conference, as appearing in our last issue: Rev. J. H. B. Royal is stationed at Klikitat, Rev. J. W. Miller, at McMinnville, and F. D. Jenkins at Walla Walla. Rev. Isaac Dillon donated the sum of $750 instead of $50, to the Wallamet University Fund.

FULL OPERATION.—The new sawmill below town is now in full and effective operation, and is turning out large quantities of lumber daily. A side track of the railroad has been constructed, reaching from near the locomotive house down to the mill. The lumber used along the road, is now taken directly from the mill and placed on the cars.

BALL.—The members of the Improved Order of Red Men will give a grand ball at Armory Hall on the evening of the 12th inst. The proceeds of the ball will be applied to a charitable object. Good music has been provided, and no effort will be spared to make the occasion one of pleasure and profit.

NOT YET DECIDED.—The United States Commissioner has rendered no decision yet in the case of Captain Patterson, of the Edward James, charged with a violation of the United States laws in carrying more passengers than the capacity of this vessel would admit. The matter will probably be decided to-day.

GREATLY IMPROVED.—A great improvement in the appearance of numerous streets is apparent since the many notices have been served by the Street Commissioner. Piles of unsightly rubbish, boxes, barrels and wood have silently and almost magically disappeared from along the streets and sidewalks.

HELD TO ANSWER.—William Davidson, who was arrested at Clatsop Beach a few days ago by Constable Rielly on a charge of the embezzlement of $200, was examined yesterday before Justice Dodge. After a hearing the defendant was held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $300.

FESTIVAL.—A festival and concert was given last evening at the First Presbyterian church, by the young ladies of the Sabbath school, the proceeds of which were donated to "The Home." A large number were in attendance, and the evening's entertainment was pleasing and instructive.

ARRESTS.—For the month ending August 31st the police made one hundred and sixty-three arrests. Of these forty were State and one hundred and twenty-three city cases. Included in the State cases were two for burglary, nineteen for larceny and two for murder.

POSTPONED.—The trial of the Chinese burglars who were arrested for breaking into the residence of Mr. Baum, last Friday evening, was postponed yesterday until this morning. The examination will take place before Judge Denny.

DEAD.—A dispatch was received yesterday from St. Helens, containing the intelligence of the death of Isaac B. Smith, who was seriously injured about two weeks ago. Mr. Smith died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

INSPECTED.—The hull and boiler of the Marie Wilkins have been inspected by Captain Flanders, Inspector of Hulls, and James Lotan, Inspector of Boilers. She passed a satisfactory examination.

BOUND OVER.—Indian Jim, held to answer to the charge of murder in the Police Court yesterday, remains one of the county boarders until the sitting of the Grand Jury in November.

AT THE LOCKS.—We understand that there is some difficulty among the stone cutters on the locks at Oregon City, the exact character of which we have as yet not been apprised.

ARRIVED.—The steamer Ajax arrived last evening from San Francisco at half past 9 o'clock, with a number of passengers and a large freight list.

COMMON COUNCIL

REGULAR MEETING, SEPT. 4, 1872.

The Common Council met last evening at the Chamber at 8 o'clock.

Mayor Wasserman in the chair.

The Girl that I Meet in the Morning

The girl that I meet in the morning,
Is fresher and fairest of all
As she trips along with her lab[illegible]
In her neat little hat and shawl
Her eyes are modestly beaming,
While her cheeks are red as rose
And my heart always beats the faster
As by me she smilingly goes

I know not the place where she labors
But know that she's earning her bread
And instead of gossip and scandal
There's something right [illegible] in her head
I see with her the things [illegible] to bring
From morning so early till night
And though she's sometimes [illegible]
Her heart is both happy and light

But when I return in the evening
How different the ladies I meet
As dressed in their silks and their [illegible]
They leisurely walk down the street
Yet their cheeks look genuine roses
Although they [illegible]
[illegible]
There's something put on [illegible]

They have spent all the hours of morning
[illegible] and novels or [illegible]
And drummed on the [illegible] piano
At least the best part of the day
Then dressed [illegible] Montgomery
Some masculine [illegible] to rend
With the charms of their beautiful faces
And the curves of their Grecian bend

But the girl I meet in the morning,
Never learned the piano to play,
For she has to work for her living
And toils through the light of the day
But when the stars shine in the evening
Her musical voice can be heard
As she carols her songs so lightly
And sings just as sweet as a bird

I know she's as good as she's pretty
For there's love in her truthful face
While her cheeks are healthy and ruddy
And her form is the symbol of grace
Although I may never her marry
Yet the one who wins her for life
Will get him a gentle companion
A modest and sweet little wife —[Rowland

Ancient Ruins on the Colorado

W D Johnson Jr topographer with the Powell Colorado exploring expedition writes a sort of diary which is published in the Deseret News The following is an extract

Passed around an island and came in sight of Ruins No 3, on a creek coming in from the east or left bank Camped for the night Here we found a large house in the shape of an L, the longer arm was 52x18 The larger was divided into two apartments the one 32x18, and the other 20x18 The smaller arm was divided into two rooms, one 10x18 and the other 18x17 In the square of this L we found a large circular hole supposed to have been a "kiva (temple underground) The temples of Moquis are all underground and the roof comes just to the top of the ground and in the shape of a cone This place is used for all the rites pertaining to the religion of the people, also for counsel when they go and smoke their pipes and converse The males are the only ones allowed to enter these kivas This kiva was fifty feet across, it being round Some of the party dug down and found the stone which had been in the wall In this kiva we found pieces of wood used for the beam, poles, etc, in tolerably good preservation. We also found fine specimens of pottery, entirely of different quality to that before found The glaze on the pottery was composed of a white shiny mineral, resembling silver in appearance The characters and figuring upon it were also fine

The Poet of the Breakfast Table, in the September Atlantic thus ungallantly couples spiders and women

'I suppose you do not trust your spider in the Museum?' said I, addressing the Scarabee.

"Not exactly,' he answered, "she is a terrible creature She loves me I think, but she is a killer and a cannibal among other insects I wanted to pair her with a male spider, but it wouldn't do "

"Wouldn't do?" said I, "why not? Don't spiders have their mates as well as other folks?"

"O yes, sometimes, but the females are apt to be particular, and if they don't like the mate you offer them they fall upon him and kill him and eat him up You see they are a great deal bigger and stronger than the males, and they are always hungry and not always particularly anxious to have one of the other sex hovering round"

'Woman's rights!" said I, "there you have it! Why don't those talking ladies take a spider as their emblem? Let them form arachnoid associations, — spinsters and spiders would be a good motto "

A leap-year proposal was thus made Mary —"Well, my dear Eli, father thought I had better see you, and propose "

Eli—"Oh, [illegible] one, I am thine!" Take me! Never mind father Take me as I am Take—"

Mary—"But, Eli, let me explain They wanted me to see you and thank you for your many [illegible], and propose that you don't come here any more "

A letter from Wm Lane Booker, Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at San Francisco, for California, Oregon and Washington Territory, states that in compliance with the [illegible] of Earl Granville, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs he has reported the name of John Wilson for his Lordship's approval to be British Vice Consul at Portland Oregon In the meantime, while waiting for an approval from the Foreign Office, Mr Booker has placed Mr Wilson in charge of the Vice Consulate as Acting Vice-Consul

The export of Gold Coin from San Francisco greatly exceeds the product of the Mint. On the 15th inst the Mint began to coin Silver Dollars for the first time in many years. This is rendered necessary in consequence of the [illegible] to obtain gold sufficient to make coin for the [illegible] of business The new silver dollars will be accepted in payment of customs, and must be accepted as legal tender in any amount In San Francisco rates of interest are generally advanced to one and a half to two per cent., though the current quotations are published at one and one and a fourth per cent but none but the Banks friends can obtain any at this rate

Exports (foreign) from this port during the month of August were light. The total value was only $5 [illegible] The value of imports (foreign) was $51 400 Duty collected during the month, $12,173 10

The growth of American Wool manufactures is strikingly illustrated by the fact that only about three fourths of a century ago the first wool-carding machine was put in operation at Ipswich Massachusetts Since then woolen manufactories have spread to every State of the Union and to some of the Territories There are now said to be two thousand seven hundred and eighty two mills in the country using eight thousand four hundred and nineteen sets of cards Hosiery and carpet mills are not included in the report

[illegible] neither time nor money in seeking new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of early indulgences, or from some secret disease which [illegible] broken down constitutions and entirely unfitted them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrible condition they [illegible] guard [illegible] to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies do not fall [illegible] apply to them immediately to DR GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases a special study for years and who is enabled to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted with these disorders to be careful of the many pretended doctors who are in all cities [illegible] their skill to cure [illegible] the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combated by scientific medical measures Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves at the eyelids [illegible] blunted intellect loss of confidence in the muscles confused vision [illegible] Dr Gibbon has had the [illegible] at a [illegible] dyspepsia [illegible] of memory hectic flush [illegible] pimples and various eruptions about the face [illegible] tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats monomania and frequent insanity If relief be obtained [illegible] directions By including Ten Dollars in a letter with a statement of [illegible] receive a [illegible] of Dr Gibbon [illegible] which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of [illegible] by the [illegible] of either of the San Francisco quacks

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain instant relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country, with full and plain directions By inclosing Ten Dollars each, or registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co. a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn certificates, shape the unwary one of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are foreigners and been too lazy too work at their trades Some are tailors, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
